To Our Non-Customers

Eight years ago when we started in business we thought if we could make our business what it is to-day, we would be perfectly satisfied; but, having reached our then aim, we find ourselves in the same dissatisfied state, and we believe now if we can increase our business in the next eight years, in proportion to the last eight, we will have fully realized our ambition. We feel this way now, though in eight years we may feel differently.

During the next eight years, we propose to use the same principles that have dominated our business in the past eight—that of driving as hard bargains as possible from our Jobbers, Manufacturers and Importers and offering them to our customers at just as small a profit as we can. To buy and sell nothing that we cannot recommend and stand squarely behind. To sell more goods for little profit rather than few sales with large profit. To treat every customer alike, and to let no one leave our store dissatisfied, if possible to satisfy them. To mark our goods in plain figures, and to sell them for just what they are marked, no more, no less; insuring that a child of six can trade with us to as good advantage as the best business man in Henry County.

Now, to make this increase, we must retain our old customers, and make as many new ones. To you who have never traded with us—We want your business. It's as much to your advantage to trade with us as it is ours. We want you to consider the above principles, read them again, and when you want something in our line for your own personal use or as a gift, give us an opportunity to prove that they are good and that we believe in them.
